2

Of the complicated European systems of national polity we have heretofore been independent. From their wars, their tumults, and anxieties we have been, happily, almost entirely exempt. Whilst these are confined to the nations which gave them existence, . . . they can not affect us except as they appeal to our sympathies in the cause of human freedom and universal advancement.

—President Franklin Pierce, inaugural address, 1853

3

Mexico has passed the boundary of the United States, has invaded our territory, and shed American blood upon the American soil.

And whereas this House desires to obtain a full knowledge of all the facts which go to establish whether the particular spot of soil on which the blood of our citizens was so shed was, or was not, our own soil, at that time . . .

This is no war of defence, but one unnecessary and of offensive aggression.

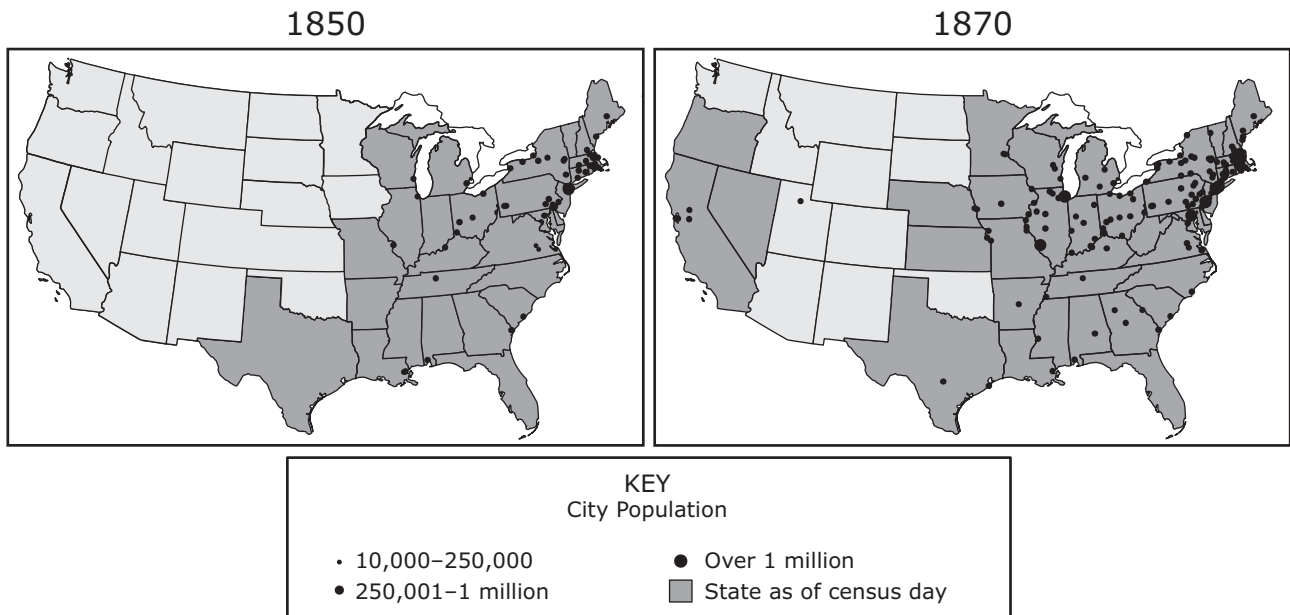

Such a "conquest," stigmatize it as you please, must necessarily be a great blessing to the conquered.
